OUR STORY

Celebrating our 13th year, we reflect on our first 10 years of lighting the world with our beautiful Enjoy Lighting flameless candles. Today, as Enjoy Living, we are excited by all the future holds. Expanding into homewares and furniture, the broad scope will only be limited by our imagination. Continuing to embrace our love and passion for interiors, we embody today's relaxed lifestyle with elegance through our ever-growing curation of beautiful and functional pieces.

Enjoy the journey

"From the age of 13 our Sunday family dinners were by candlelight; the mesmerizing ambience inspiring a lifelong passion for candlelight. My love affair continued to the day I married David, and our wedding was lit by an abundance of beautiful candles that I kept. They have never been lit since, capturing forever a moment in time of a fabulous night. In December 2009, an associate from the USA, who was looking for a distributor sent us some samples of real wax, flameless candles. I remember thinking 'sure, feels real, but honestly, who would want a fake candle?'

Afraid for the safety of our 5-year-old son, we had long stopped using candles, so that evening we placed a couple of flameless candles on the mantelpiece and set the timer to 6 hours. I frequently caught myself glancing over at the candles, honestly thinking they looked like they were really burning. Later that evening, I walked towards them to blow them out, and stopped in my tracks when I realised what I was doing. The very next night I went to blow them out again, that is when I realised that this was truly something special. I knew Enjoy Flameless Candles were going to be a big part of our lives. In January 2010, we became the Australasian distributor.

A year later we ended up owning the company, commencing our own manufacturing journey. In the 10 years as Enjoy Lighting, we proudly sold more than 500,000 candles worldwide. Today as Enjoy Living, with pride and unwavering passion, we vow to continue to source the very best of aesthetically appealing homewares and furniture."

- Lisa Carrick, Co-Founder and CEO, Enjoy Living

Lisa, a former Buyer, and Business Manager for the Coles-Myer Group, traversed the world for inspiration developing her unique and fashionable, authentic hand-made battery operated wax candles. Humbled her passion for enjoying flameless candles has grown into a worldwide sensation, Lisa delights that each candle adds real ambience, without compromising safety.

Lisa, joined by David, her partner in life and business, has taken the plunge, embracing a lifelong passion for home styling. Sourcing and developing carefully curated homewares and furniture, they bring you a collection of pieces to truly inspire your space.

NGUNI HEADS by John Vogel

With a Scandi style aesthetic, and hand carved from ash wood, the design of the Nguni Heads was inspired by the horns of the indigenous Nguni cattle that wander the South African coastline. The horns have a minimalist appeal and can be used as a feature piece of wall art or as a functional wall hook with a twist. Adored for their artful versatility, Nguni Heads adorn the walls of many stylist's homes. Visually stunning as a single feature, and spectacular when hung as a series. The small and medium Nguni Heads are available in both Natural and Ash Black.

Meet the designer, John Vogel

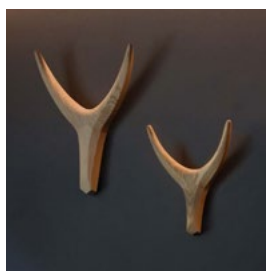

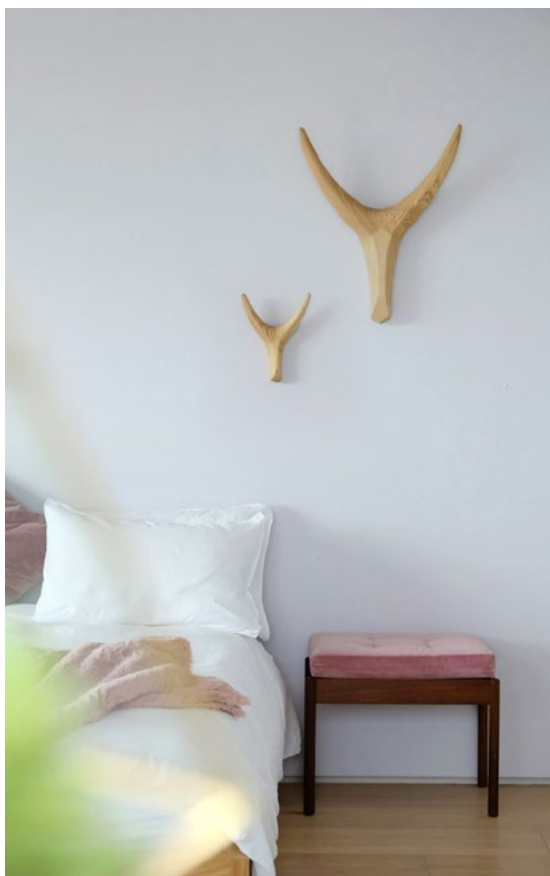

EKTA Nguni Heads designer John Vogel has a design background in architecture and started making furniture as a student.

"I most enjoy exploring organic, nature inspired form, and the idea of form as an intuitive language which evokes an emotive response. After exploring work approaches in many materials I have chosen wood as my primary medium, I love the connection it has to the natural world and the fact that good forestry management can ensure a sustainable supply.

My design process involves moving to prototyping as early as possible, and evolving the design and production process alongside each other."

Our work is all produced in our factory in Woodstock, Cape Town. We have a people oriented approach which includes training new staff from scratch and up skilling our workforce from handwork to management. Vogel is a family design and maker business run by husband and wife team John and Terri Vogel.

We strive for a closed cycle metabolism by designing smaller products that are made from our factory offcuts, minimising our waste outputs, as well as contributing towards tree planting."

FIREKEEPER by Knud Holscher

Crafted from stainless steel with a matte black textured finish, and measuring a commanding 67cm in length, the FireKeeper is an attractive and ingenious tool for starting and tending fires in woodburning stoves, open fireplaces and outdoor grills. The idea comes from the American Indians who discovered how to invigorate a fire by blowing into the embers through a tube. The 'fire keeper' was the person who stayed behind in the camp while others went hunting or gathering food. The FireKeeper can be used as a fire blower as well as a poker. It performs the same function as a traditional bellows as it allows you to blow air through the tube directly into the embers. When not in use, the FireKeeper can be displayed on its magnetic holder that can be attached to the wall next to the fireplace.

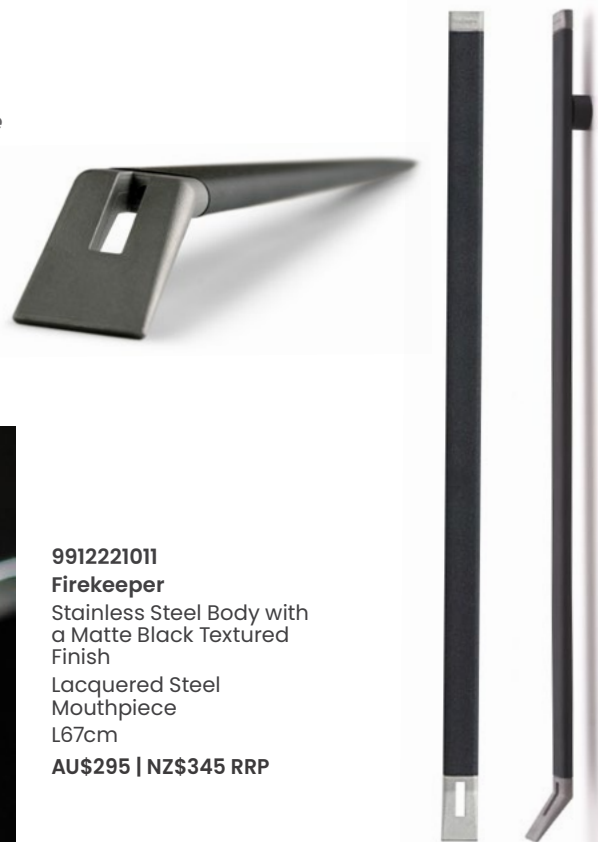

Expertly crafted with beautiful weight and balance, its aesthetic appeal makes it ideal to showcase, like a piece of art.

Meet the designer, Knud Holscher

EKTA Firekeeper designer Knud Holscher graduated from the Royal Danish Academy of Fine Arts in 1957. From 1960-64, he worked as a partner in the office of Arne Jacobsen as associate architect for the realisation of St. Catherine's College, University of Oxford.

Knud has attracted international attention with products like d-line, a series of architectural fittings, spotlights for FLOS and the German light manufacturer ERCO, the bus shelters for JCDecaux and the Geberit sanitary products. Many of these iconic designs have become part of everyday life for people around the world.

furniture – holmes

HOLMES TABLE by David Krynauw

The precision of Krynauw's design aesthetic meets an intriguing connective illusion in these side tables. The Danish aesthetic is wholly present in the simplicity of the lines and forms that make up the design. The connective intricacies of the table legs add an element of intrigue and character. Nest or style separately. Available in alluring dark smoke. Stock available now and is limited.

Meet the designer, David Krynauw

EKTA Holmes designer David Krynauw grew up in one of the largest forestry regions in South Africa. Being constantly surrounded by trees and timber, he developed an immense passion for the medium and started experimenting with it from a young age. In 2008, David decided to start his own furniture manufacturing business on his family farm in Piet Retief. His business grew steadily, and he moved to Johannesburg where he developed his own design language and method, enabling him to create anything – from a chair to a building – using parts and joining them in ingenious ways.

Krynauw's work pushed the boundary in every possible way, and there is more to his designs than meets the eye. His attention to detail in the way his pieces are designed and created offers evidence of the mastery he holds over his craft. The accolades he has won creating bespoke wooden décor throughout a distinguished career speak volumes for the high regard in which he is held by the international design community. He now employs around 60 people, creating a wide variety of furniture pieces and architectural structures. David's simplistic approach, ongoing passion, energy and love for his medium and craft is what sets him apart.
